TOBACCO FESTIVAL
THIS WEEK IN RICHMOND

More lovely girls, more floats, more bands, more special features —or more of everything seems to be the story on the Eighth Annual Tobacco Festival which started on Wednesday, October 10, in Richmond, and continues through Saturday, Oct. 13, according to General Chairman Floyd E. Adams.

The illuminated parade has now grown to eighty-eight units compared to seventy-two units last year. Five more princesses are being sponsored by tobacco markets in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Florida. The twenty-eight floats will be more spectacular than ever. The famous Anheuser-Busch eight-horse hitch and Mallie Theimer's Fire Throwing Baton Twirlers will be among the thirty-six special units to take part in the Friday Festival parade.

Ferko's Band will give its annual concert at noon Friday on the Capitol Plaza. "Pajama Game" opened at the Mosque on Monday, and will play through Saturday evening.
